DIGITALIZING AN IP LAW FIRM

- Why is it so hard for IP law firms to define and digitalize workflows?
- What is the solution for this problem?
- What do airports and patent offices have in common?
- How do we all get free schnitzel?

UNVEILING KNOWLEDGE

IP law firms are driven by time limits, cases and documents

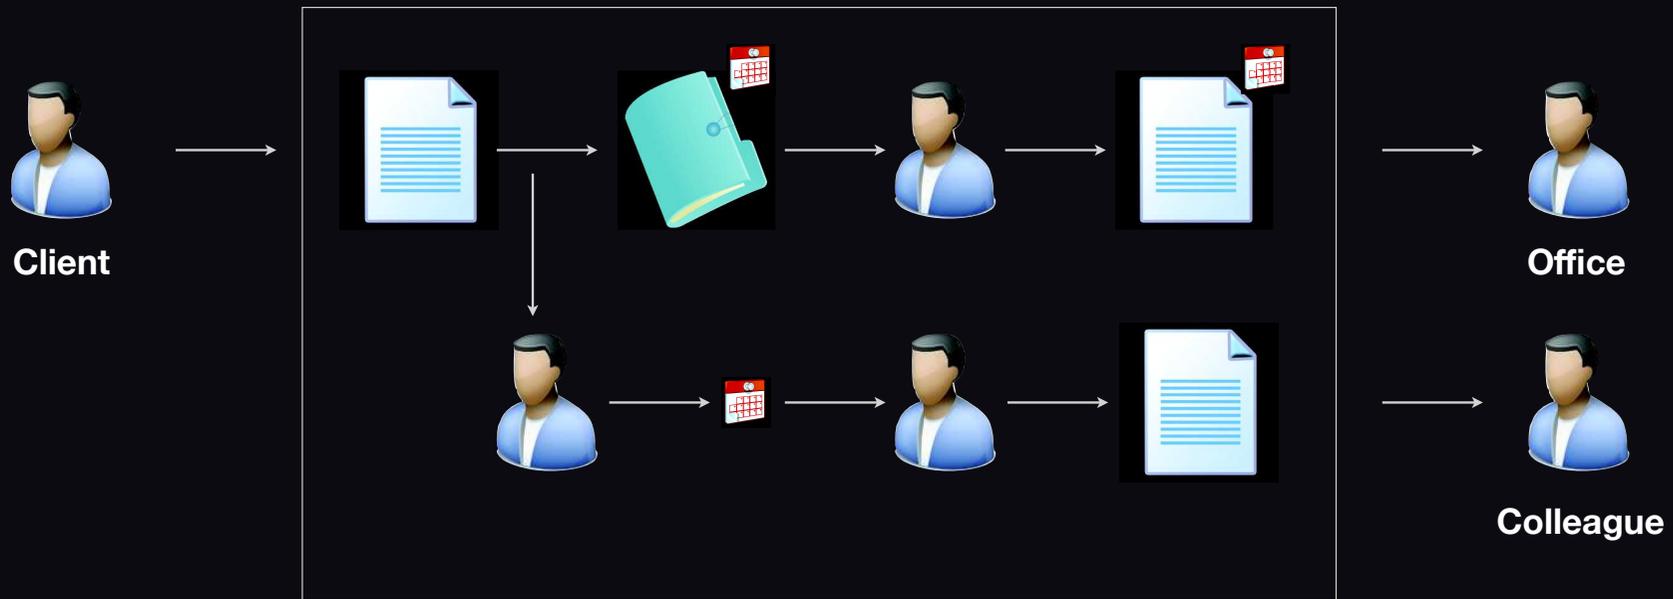

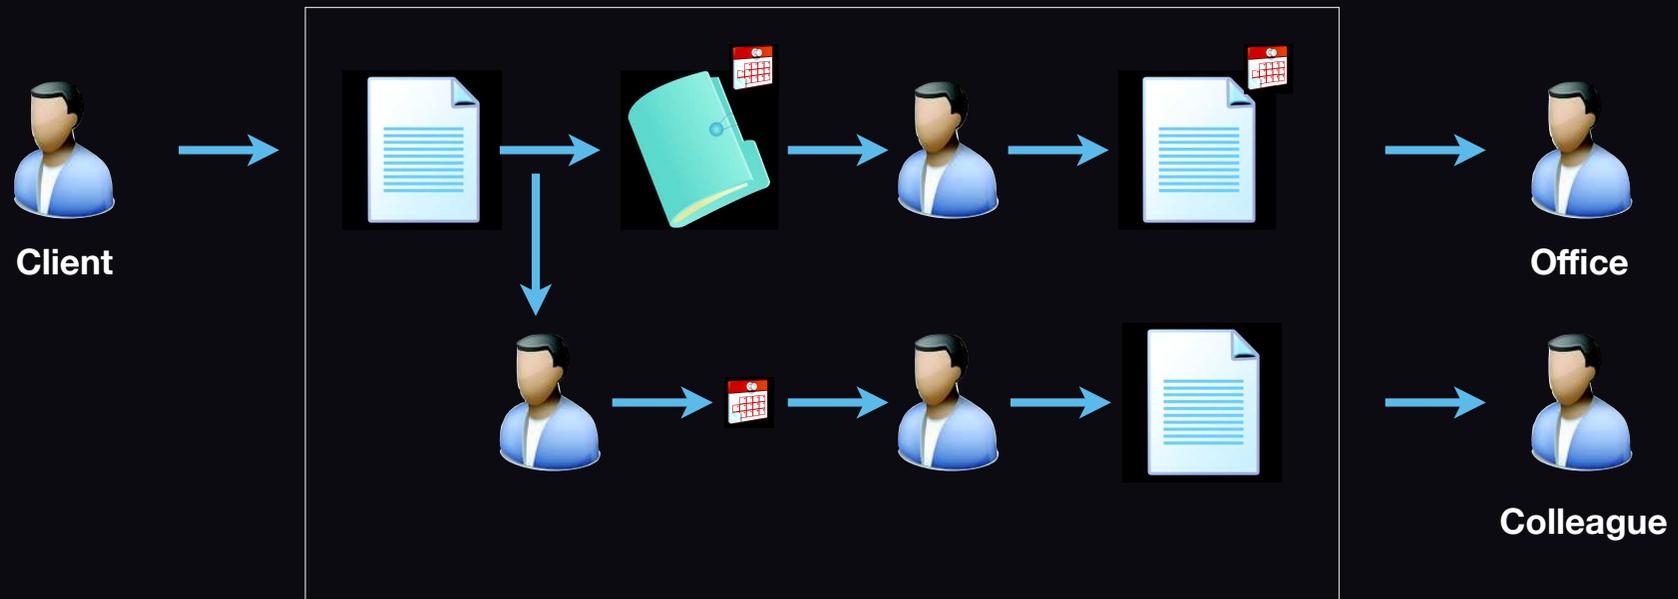

An incoming document gets assigned to one or more cases and triggers time limits

In internal as well as external communication, documents trigger actions.

Tasks are handed over by passing a case file, a document or a time limit, both in paper and electronically.

In fact, communication drives processes and triggers actions.

Digitalization requires a focus on communication and processes,
not on getting rid of paper.

takes years
requires experts

different communication streams
high „noise“

Knowledge work
- per definition -
lacks a-priori known processes as well as process items.
